Candidate profile

Masharof Ahmed

My name is Masharof Ahmed, I currently work in a Bicycle store and workshop and am a recent graduate in an International Health MSc, I also have an undergraduate degree in Human Biology, both degrees are from Queen Margaret University. I am a keen cyclist, it is a hobby that keeps me healthy and is my preferred mode of transport because it is fun and sustainable. I am also interested in cooking, reading, board games and politics.

My degrees have made me passionate about an asylum process that is fairer and safer for asylum seekers. It has also made me concerned about the growing number of climate refugees that have been displaced because of the effects of climate change, as such I am also passionate about meaningful climate policies and recognition of climate refugees. Because climate change has a disproportionate effect on marginalised communities and the "Global South", I think addressing climate change is essential for anti-racism, anti-colonialism and social justice campaigns because of how they intersect. My aspiration for LCS would be to use and develop my skills in leadership, negotiation and influencing to get more members and organisations from marginalised communities involved and to help create a space to platform their communities experience of climate change, their ideas, solutions and innovations. I believe a truly intersectional anti-racism movement involves a diverse membership and addresses every cause of injustice, including climate change and all that will come with it.
